

Miss E. Haysom Given Year's Leave of Absence

Board to Endeavor to Get Back $50 Deposit on Fuel Saver; More Equipment for Household Economic Class

The regular meeting of the school board was held on Tuesday evening. Present Acting Chairman P. Sharp, Trustees Fleming and Lloyd.

Letters were received from Dr. Rose and Miss Edith Haysom pertaining to Miss Haysom's sickness. It was the opinion of the doctor that she retire from her school duties for at least one year. Miss Haysom's request for a year's leave of absence was granted.

Mrs. Hartley Dunlop is at present the substitute teacher. Principal Hoyle was authorized to split the work up between Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Bert Bond, Mrs. Horace Allen and Mrs. John McDonald until such time as Miss Belle Godfrey can state definitely if she can accept the position for the remainder of the term. Miss Godfrey has a school in a rural area and is endeavoring to secure her release.

A letter was received from the solicitors of the Alberta Trustees' Association regarding the $50 deposit given T. E. Edwards, agent for Co-Operative Sales Ltd. It has been found out that instead of being an agent, Edwards is the whole company. He has assured the lawyers that the fuel saver will be installed within the next two weeks. Since the case still looks rather shady, the board will notify the solicitors to endeavor to get back the $50 deposit given Edwards.

Joe Kwame made application for the position of janitor at Cameron school. Letter was filed. Dr. D. A. Rylands, Lethbridge, will take over the dental practice vacated by Dr. R. H. Campbell. Dr. Rylands made application for the contract to service all school pupils. Since the contract has already been awarded to Dr. Lillie the letter was filed.

The contract for transporting the children residing at Sentinel was renewed with Oliver Barrington.

Joe Emmerson was re-appointed auditor for 1940-41.

Three sewing machines, a desk and bookcase are required by the Household Economics teacher. The articles were authorized purchased.

Legion Asks Liquor Board's Permission to Exhibit Pictures

No Word Has Yet Been Received From Board; Officials Hopeful Permission Will Be Granted.

The local branch of the Canadian Legion has written the provincial liquor board for permission to throw open the doors of the club to the general public for a few hours at a future date for the purpose of exhibiting the pictures painted by Fred Pounds.

At the present time no reply has been received from the Board, but local officials fully expect their request to be granted. An announcement will be made in The Journal when the Board's reply is received.

SALE OF WAR BONDS LIGHT

The sale of war bonds in Canada's second war loan is light in Coleman according to local agents. According to the dailies 141 million dollars have been subscribed at the end of the second day mostly by large organizations. The low wage working man has evidently given practically all his savings to the first loan and has not had a chance to save a sufficient amount to give to a second loan.

Mrs. R. P. Borden Leaving Pentiction

Resigned as Red Cross President; Will Reside At Victoria.

Mrs. R. P. BORDEN

Mrs. R. P. Borden, former well-known Coleman lady, tendered her resignation as president of the Pentiction branch of the Canadian Red Cross at an executive meeting held last week. She will move to Victoria, where Dr. Borden is stationed as a military doctor.

H. T. Griffiths, chairman of the branch's campaign committee, spoke for the entire executive when he said that the president had offered an example of devoted service and that she would be genuinely missed. "Only because she is leaving Pentiction will we allow her to vacate this office," he declared.

Dr. and Mrs. Borden left Coleman last week here to take up residence at Pentiction, where Dr. Borden had taken over a practice. She was most active in the Girl Guide movement here and organized many young girls into various Guide groups. At Pentiction she has been an active campaigner in the Red Cross and held the position of president.

Wm. Antrobus Has Fruit Orchard

Samples of Fruit on Display in Coleman Cash Grocery Window.

Three samples of fruit in the Coleman Cash Grocery window on Tuesday revealed that a Coleman man has had a fruit orchard for the past several years with very few people knowing it. The fruit display included tomatoes, cherries and crab apples, all looking very healthy and most appetizing.

Mr. Antrobus started fruit growing as a hobby. He has been buying seedlings from Lethbridge Experimental Farm and now has 14 varieties of apple trees. By grafting one variety to another he hopes within the next two years to harvest standard sized apples.

He has six kinds of tomato plants, the seeds coming from the Experimental Farm at Lethbridge. In the early spring they stood six degrees of frost. He has charts on the progress of the fruit and sells the Experimental Farm authorities by sending in the charts so that expert study can be made of them. His cherry trees were bought from a commercial traveller and he has had tremendous success with them as the sample on display proves.

For the past twenty years he has been growing Black, Red and White varieties of currants and also great numbers of gooseberries.

Like most gardeners Mr. Antrobus gets a great pleasure from his hobby and while it off time entails a large expenditure of money to secure trees the results and pleasure derived more than offset the cost.

BALL SERIES POSTPONED

Well, cold weather caused postponement of the provincial ball series between Pucketers and Stavely. A telephone call early Sunday morning from the Stavely officials asked that the series be postponed until this coming Sunday.

Fellow Citizens And Coal Company Employees Honor Memory of George Kellock

Crowds Line Station And Approaches as Funeral Procession Arrives--Impressive Service in Calgary--Burial in Beautiful Burnside Cemetery.

With dramatic suddenness the life of George Kellock, brilliant mining executive and loyal citizen, was cut off shortly after 10 p.m. on Wednesday, September 4. Not only in his own community, but throughout the province the news came as a distinct shock, and ended a life that from young manhood had been one of constructive enterprise of an exceptional nature. The tributes from his fellow citizens and from all parts of Canada bear abundant testimony to the esteem in which he was held, and his passing leaves a gap which will indeed be difficult to fill.

The funeral service at his home on Sunday was conducted by Rev. J. E. Kirk, of the United church, in the presence of Mrs. Kellock and son Jim and his wife, a brother, James Kellock and his wife, and immediate relatives, besides a large number of friends. Hundreds stood in silent sympathy outside the house during the service. The house was banked with floral tributes from people of all walks of life, indicating the sense of personal loss in his passing. The only hymn sung was "Abide With Me." Following the service, the body in a casket was conveyed to the station, escorted by members of Summit Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Coleman; Sentinel Lodge, Hillcrest, and Rocky Mountain Lodge, Blairmore.

Accompanying the body to Calgary, besides members of the family, were Mr. Lorne A. Campbell, president of the companies, and Mr. Albert F. Short, secretary of the companies, and Mrs. Short, and Mrs. Kline, sister of Mrs. Kellock. As the train left, many a thought went through the minds of those who had gathered that this was the end of a life which had meant much to Coleman and the industrial life of the province. The pall-bearers at Sunday's service were J. Emmerson, J. O. C. McDonald, Elias Jones, Sidney G. Short, W. S. Purvis, and Alan Brown.

On Monday at 2 p.m. at Leyden's Funeral Home, Calgary, a large gathering of people from Calgary and various parts of the province, including British Columbia, assembled to pay their last tribute to the deceased. Those unable to gain admittance stood reverently on the lawn of the funeral home. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. George W. Kerby, principal of Mount Royal College, and past grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Alberta.

Following prayers and Scriptural readings by Dr. Kerby, he made inspiring reference to the life of Mr. Kellock. He stated that this large gathering of men and women was a tribute to the character of one who had stood for the best thing in community life. He began at the bottom rung of the ladder and rose to the top through his own energy and enterprise. Some men really live a hundred years of constructive effort in fifty years, and the many works of him whom we honored in death was a shining example to his fellow men. As a Canadian citizen, a loving husband and father and a loyal friend, he would be greatly missed. The influence of a human life remained for years in the light it might leave to illumine the paths of men.

To Mrs. Kellock and family he extended words of comfort, and assured them that through trust in God they would eventually triumph over grief and sorrow. Capt. the Rev. A. E. Larke, former United church minister in Coleman, assisted in the service, reading the lesson. Hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me."

A PATRIOT HEART

This photograph was taken at the laying of the corner-stone of Coleman high school on Remembrance Day of 1935, at which Mr. Kellock presided.

At Burnside cemetery, beautiful in its latter summer setting, with trim lawns and flower beds aglow with blossoms, following the committal service by Dr. Kerby, the rites of the Masonic order were conducted in a most impressive manner by Rt. Worshipful A. F. Short, past deputy grand master of District No. 8. The body was laid to rest in the family plot, which contains the body of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kellock, Agnes, and baby, who died in 1933 about a year following her marriage.

The honorary pall-bearers were Lorne A. Campbell, president and general manager of West Kootenay Power & Light Co. Ltd., and president of McGillivray and International Coal Companies; H. A. Howard, a director of the company; F. L. Irving, H. A. Maguire, J. E. A. McLeod, K. C., all of Calgary; C. T. Oughtred, of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. Ltd.; Kimberley; John Shanks, general manager of Nordegg Collieries Ltd.; R. M. Young, general manager of Canmore Collieries Ltd.

Masonic pall-bearers from Coleman were Sidney C. Short, A. E. Graham, H. Wilton-Clark, Elias Jones, Alex. Galbraith and Walter S. Purvis. Other members of the lodge present were Sam Moores, Arthur A. Pruett, H. T. Halliwell, W. L. Borrowes and Ross G. Powell, the latter of Calgary.

Other provincial mines branch of Alberta was represented by Andrew A. Millar, chief mines inspector, Edmonton; W. E. G. Hall, Lethbridge; W. G. Heeley, Calgary; Evan Morgan, Blairmore; Alex. Hunter. Other prominent mining men present were J. A. Brunt, general manager West Canadian Collieries; Barney Caulfield, Crown Nest Pass Coal Co., Michel; R. S. Tennant, manager Maple Leaf Mines, Drumheller; W. Henderson, Western Gem and Jewel Collieries, Drumheller; Ben Coon, general manager Lethbridge Collieries; and J. A. McLeod, general manager of Cadomin Mines. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Hector S. McDonald, Dr. H. G. Claxton and John D'Appollonia were among those from Coleman attending the service. Among former Coleman residents now living in Calgary, were Mrs. R. Evans, Mrs. H. G. Goodeve, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Parry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Easton, Mrs. Angus Morrison. Miss Margaret Price of Blairmore accompanied friends from Coleman.

DR. GEO. W. KERBY

In referring to the life of Mr. George Kellock, at the funeral service on Monday in Calgary, Rev. Dr. George W. Kerby spoke as follows:

The sudden passing of George Kellock in the midst of the activities of life came as a great surprise and shock to the citizens of this province where he has been so well and favourably known for many years.

He came to this province from Fifeshire, Scotland, nearly forty years ago and has stood for the best and highest things in our community life.

He began at the lowest rung of the ladder in his business and business career and rose to the top of responsibility and influence.

He was a man faithful and loyal to duty, and as a friend, ever true and tried.

His steady, reliable and faithful life together with his friendly, brotherly, cheerful attitude have been a source of encouragement and help to many citizens who have come to know him.

Some men live a hundred years in fifty years. The length of one's life is not so important, but the weight of one's life is supremely important.

The quality and not the quantity of life is the thing that matters most.

Success, after all, is the proper use of the powers we possess applied to the realization of a worthwhile purpose and life objective.

His life story is told in his community life, in his business relations, and as a friend, and as a loving husband and an affectionate father, and a loyal Canadian citizen.

He was a man of generous impulses, kindly thought and sympathy, a true and loyal citizen of Canada.

He will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends and fellow citizens.

And yet may I say the influence of a human life cannot be destroyed by death or buried in the grave. Human influence is immortal, it cannot die.

So when a good man dies

For years beyond our ken, The light he leaves behind him lies

Along the paths of men. To live in the hearts we leave behind is not to die.

Herein, then, is comfort that no pagan religion can give. In the light of it humanity has dried its tears and the hope of immortality is a comfort to those who are passing over, and it is a comfort to those who remain, for they know that some glad day the broken ties will be united.

Not now, but in the coming years it may be in the better land, We'll read the meaning of our tears

And then sometime we'll understand.

To Mrs. Kellock and son and family this community joins with me today in extending to them our profound sympathies in this hour of their sorrow and great loss.

Legion Starts Soldiers Overseas Comfort Fund

Public Requested to Hand In Names of Coleman Soldiers Now in England.

Coleman Branch of the Canadian Legion has started a fund to send cigarettes and comforts to the Coleman soldiers who are now stationed in Britain or Iceland. Any person knowing the addresses of Coleman boys overseas is asked to hand the information to Archie McCulloch, secretary of the Fund or to Alex. Easton, steward at the Legion club.

The Legion officials wish to emphasize the fact that the fund is only for soldiers overseas and not for those still stationed in Canada.

175 Ambulances Donated to The Red Cross

Crows Nest Pass Subscribes One Dozen Ambulances

Over one hundred ambulances donated to the Canadian Red Cross have arrived in England and are now being used in various parts of the country.

A cable received in Toronto from London recently stated: "The ambulances were needed urgently."

Dr. Fred W. Routley, national commissioner, commented, "According to reports from our London office, not a moment was lost in putting them to good use."

The ambulances were given by individuals, business firms, service clubs and other organizations from one end of Canada to the other, in response to an appeal from England. To date, more than 175 have been contributed at a cost of $1,750,000 each. Doctor Routley also reported that, in response to an urgent cable from London, 20,000 blankets have been shipped to England recently. In all, he said, 45,000 blankets have been sent. Well over 80,000 blankets were contributed to the Canadian Red Cross in response to a nation-wide appeal some weeks ago.

Possibly the most generous donations came from the mining towns of the Crows Nest Pass, including Bellvue, Hillcrest, Blairmore, Coleman and Fernie. In all a dozen ambulances were subscribed for by the mining population and business firms of those towns.

Well over 80,000 blankets were contributed to the Canadian Red Cross in response to a nation-wide appeal some weeks ago.

GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

A Mutual Defence Line

The swift march of events in Europe this spring and summer has so thoroughly alarmed and alarmed the people of the United States that they are now prepared to undergo great sacrifices to put their defenses in order, to maintain the integrity of their land and to preserve inviolate what is commonly referred to as the American way of life and the American standard of living.

The people of the United States are now fully alive to the fact that if Britain should be defeated, an eventuality which we do not for one moment entertain, their turn would come next and if, as some military and naval authorities in that country are wont to assert, invasion of the United States by Hitler and his goose-stepping Nazis is a physical impossibility, the American people are now fully aware that subjugation of Britain would spell for them economic domination by a Nazified eastern hemisphere.

There is some reason, too, to doubt the assertion of some authorities that the United States would be immune from physical damage by the Nazi war machine, for, only May 15 a report of the Naval Affairs Committee of the U. S. Senate said:

"From all the evidence available it appears that the United States can be conquered without military conquest of continental United States. An effective blockade against our foreign commerce can be maintained at points thousands of miles from our coasts and well beyond aircraft range. Our outlying possessions will be captured and used against us as advanced bases. There will be nothing to prevent the establishment of bases, by force if necessary, in this hemisphere, from which as well as from aircraft carriers, repeated bombing raids can be dispatched against our highly industrialized areas."

Their First Line

The foregoing extract from the Naval Affairs Committee report is highly illuminating, but that does not take into account the assistance that might and undoubtedly would be given to Hitler and his cohorts by the enemy within the gates, as was the case in Norway, Belgium and other victims of the Nazi machine. There is plenty of evidence that the United States is riddled with Nazi agents who are working their propaganda machine overtime and only await the time and opportunity to indulge in sabotage and other overt acts.

That the people of the United States have become alarmed at the situation and are fully aware of the potential dangers that threaten them is evidenced in many ways, including the fact that Congress, which was prepared to vote two billion dollars to strengthen the defenses of the country in the middle of May boosted the appropriation by the middle of July to ten billion dollars and did so, with alacrity and eagerness.

This substantial sum provides, among other things for a two-ocean navy, but, it is pointed out, it will require the lapse of about six years before for this adequate navy can be built and completed. In the meantime, the United States is relying upon and will continue to rely upon the services of the British navy to protect its ocean-borne commerce.

The conclusion is obvious—and that is that the United States first line of defence is in European waters where the British navy is holding the fort and until such time as the new American naval program is completed it would appear to be a vital necessity for the people of the United States to assist the British in every possible way and with every means at their disposal.

A Further Opportunity

The situation was aptly summarized by Robert E. Sherwood in an article in the Reader's Digest in which he said: "The chief bulwark between us and the world revolution is Britain's navy. As a matter of cold, calculating self-preservation we must keep that navy fighting on our side by providing Britain with every needed ship, gun, plane, implement of war, pound of food and shred of hope that we can give."

Even as the vital necessity for building powerful defenses has suddenly dominated the American conscience so the doctrine that Europe is the first line of defence is rapidly gaining ground south of the international boundary. Only recently the political leaders of the United States and Canada agreed to set up a joint defence board and to co-operate in the defence of this hemisphere. It is but one step further for the United States to give a greater measure of aid to Britain's war effort and particularly that offer on the seas.

It is gratifying to note that an important step in that direction has recently been taken in the form of an agreement to furnish Great Britain with 50 of 160 over-age destroyers in the possession of the United States in exchange for leasehold rights of British territory in the West Indies and the Central American coasts as sites for United States naval and air force bases.

Thus the leaven of British-American solidarity, so vitally essential for mutual protection, is already working and may be expected to be materially augmented as the war progresses to the discomfiture of the Axis powers.

India's Contribution

Quantities Of War Material Sent To Overseas Centres

India has made news since the war started because of discussions over the tangled constitutional question, but all the time she has been making a tremendous contribution to the war effort. Figures released in Simla showed that since the outbreak of the war India has despatched to overseas centres 75,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 200,000 shells of all categories, 4,500,000 sandbags, 10,000 sets of web equipment, 600,000 blankets, 3,000,000 yards of khaki drill, and large quantities of other material.

No Information

No Canadian office is complete without its stand of cold drinking water. A big fellow went to the British Office of Works gardener watering the grass in the Green Park and said: "Where can I get a drink of water, friend?" The gardener scratched his head. "Don't ask me," he answered. "I never drink it."

Home economics experts say that dark colored lamp shades can waste as much as 40 per cent. of the light from a lamp.

Ancient Weapons

Combination Shot Gun And Rifle Submitted For Registration

The new regulations governing firearms has resulted in some queer specimens of weapons being submitted to the R.C.M.P. for registration. Lately the prize goes to the man who brought in a muzzle-loading combination rifle and shot gun, 1847 model. The 93-year-old relic was really triple action. Besides firing a double discharge from the muzzle it must have had the kick of the proverbial mule.

Another citizen brought in an old German machine-gun that he had brought back as a souvenir from the last war. The gun was air-cooled and had a pan carrying 45 cartridges. It weighed 25 pounds, and pays tribute to the perseverance of its owner packing it back all the way from France.

Hitler's men have punctured a few British balloons, but sooner or later the balloon of his own inflated ambition will be punctured and he will collapse.

That's the trouble with Hitler. He wants England to be Herr-conditioned.

If Proof Were Needed

Way Britain's Ministers Over Nazi

Proclaima Pupae Begins
Some spokesmen of France have done their best in recent weeks to assure us that the Vichy regime is not a puppet regime and that the line between the unoccupied and occupied French territory is a genuine frontier between two contrasting ways of life. Now, however, Americans have a way of judging for themselves. A dispatch from the Swiss border reports, with an abundance of detail, that hundreds of anti-Nazi refugees in unoccupied, "free" France have been delivered back to the whipping posts and torture chambers of the German Gestapo.

The men of Vichy could not have wanted this terrible thing done. They must have known that the victims were helpless men and women who had fled to France for sanctuary, and who wanted nothing more than to help France in struggle against tyranny. Marshal Petain's ministers were, no doubt, ordered to open their permanent camps to the agents of the conspiracy; the Marshal himself admitted, in an extraordinary talk with American correspondents, that "the Germans hold the rope and twist it" whenever they choose. A Government that meekly hands back hundreds of fugitives to their persecutors cannot pretend to be anything but a puppet. The crime committed against these refugees is, in truth, a crime against France, a proof that the present Government is a mockery of all that independent France has stood for in the eyes of civilized men.—New York Times.

Mechanical Bird Dog

Pointer Used By British Helps Locate German Air Raiders

The defenders of Britain are using a sort of "mechanical bird dog" to hunt down German night raiders. The British censor permitted disclosure for the first time that "crup" is done not only by searchlights but by an ingenious range-and-course predictor sometimes called a "sausage machine," and by other equipment of a nature kept closely secret.

It works like this:—With the secret devices, perhaps listening devices, anti-aircraft gun crews determine the position and direction of the approaching raider. They feed this data into the "sausage machine," which turns out a series of predictions for the plane in the immediate aftermath of the future.

These positions then are subjected to heavy fire from 3, 3.7 and 4.5-inch anti-aircraft batteries.

Searchlights also cover these spots, to try to catch the raider in the beam for the benefit both of forward defenders and defending fighter planes.

The crews say that once an enemy is caught in the glare, it is relatively easy to hold him in the light of first one beam and then another until the anti-aircraft guns or fighter pilots can catch up.

Military circles credit the anti-aircraft guns with 100 of the 1,000 German planes shot down in August, a record much better than in the First Great War.

A Sensible Idea

Winston Churchill Wants Public Officials To Use Plain English

As if one war were not enough, Prime Minister Churchill has started another—he wants to get public officials to stop using highfalutin, round-about language and express themselves in plain English. "The receipt of your communication is hereby acknowledged with thanks," will give way, if Mr. Churchill succeeds, to "Thank you for your letter," and "Consideration should be given to the possibility of carrying into effect," which he cited as a particularly horrible example of "officialness"—would probably become "We might try—"

The Prime Minister will have plenty of allies in this new war, but victory won't be easy. The other fellows are solidly entrenched. Their morals are excellent, because they know they are fighting for the dearest thing they possess, the right of circumlocution. They will defend it with their last periphrastic latinism.

But the bold Churchill will not be daunted. Up and at 'em, Winston!—New York Sun.

To Be Exact

A young lady who was a deputy registrar in a country district was questioning an old codger who came in to register about his education. "Your schooling," she explained. "Just how far did you go?" "Let's see," said the old fellow, scratching his head. "bout two miles, I reckon."

Changed Conditions

Canada Now One Of The Nearest Supply Points For Britain

Canada, regarded as the start of the war as one of Britain's distant supply points, is seen now as one of the United Kingdom's nearest suppliers because of the changed conditions since Germany overran most of Europe.

This statement was contained in an announcement by the Ministry of Information that Britain seized 45,300 tons of contraband during July, 34,600 from neutral ships and 10,700 from Italian vessels. Most of the neutral ships were bound for Italy.

The increased shipping advantages obtained in recent months have compensated for the much longer distances the vessels now have to go for supplies, the Ministry said.

The statement added that Canada's embarking on a "very large" shipbuilding program involving about 100 vessels of all kinds.

There are now 7,500,000 more gross tons of shipping available to the Allies than when the war started, due largely to the increase in the number of ships. The Ministry said. When the war started Britain and the Empire had 21,000,000 gross tons of shipping, including all vessels of more than 100 tons.

These included all types—troopships, supply ships and armed merchant cruisers—and less than half the total should be counted as available for cargo carrying.

The ships now available for the Allies include those of Norway, 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 tons; The Netherlands, more than 2,000,000 tons; Belgium and Poland, 500,000 tons; and Denmark and France, 800,000 tons.

SELECTED RECIPES

COFFEE-BANANA ICE CREAM

1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons Bee Hive Golden Syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup hot strong coffee
3 tablespoons Durham corn starch
3 tablespoons cold coffee
1 teaspoon pure vanilla
3 medium sized ripe bananas
2 cups heavy cream

Combine sugar, syrup, salt and strong coffee. Stir over heat until sugar dissolves, then bring to boiling point. Stir in the corn starch, blended smoothly with the cold coffee. Stir and cook until mixture thickens smoothly and no raw flavor remains. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Add the thoroughly mashed bananas, and chill. Fold in the cream, whipped to the consistency of custard. Turn into a flat dish and chill in refrigerator, and freeze to a stiff mass. Beat until smooth but not melted, level out in freezing tray and return to refrigerator until hard enough for serving.

ICE BOX DAINTIES

24 Christie's Vanilla Wafers, large
1/2 cup raspberry jam
1/2 teaspoon powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup whipping cream
Spread vanilla wafers with jam and make stacks of four each. Whip cream, add sugar and vanilla. Coat each stack of wafers with whipped cream. Place on flat dish and chill in refrigerator 2 to 3 hours. Six portions.

Greatest Hop Production

District In B.C. Accounts For Most Of Canada's Crop

A thousand acres of hops might not be extraordinary in European countries but for Canada that area is remarkable and the more so that it is in one district and makes up 99 per cent. of Canada's production. Chilliwack, in the Fraser Valley, has the distinction of building up this farm industry. A few weeks ago pickers began to move into Chilliwack and Sardis for the annual harvest, numbering altogether about five thousand.

Growers report that the effects of the long dry spell in June and July were beaten by intensive cultivation and in some yards to irrigation and sub-irrigation. They predicted easier picking conditions for harvesters, however, as the dry weather reduced the amount of foliage on the vines.

Chinese Students

Come To Canada Under The Boxer Indemnity Fund

A group of 27 honor graduates of Chinese universities is bound for McGill University where the youths will study. The group has arrived from China, coming under the Boxer Indemnity fund, established in 1906, when China was compelled to pay an indemnity to foreign nations suffering in the rebellion.

Britain and the United States allowed their share to be used for education of Chinese youths at British and United States universities. Because of the war this year's graduates are attending McGill instead of Oxford and Cambridge.

Advice Proved Valuable

King George Learns About His Father's Strategy In Last War

The King heard how a suggestion his father made on the Western Front in August, 1918, to British gunners set off a terrific barrage which rendered an important railway junction at Douai, France, practically useless to the Germans.

A Royal Engineers' lieutenant-colonel told the King and Queen at a northern artillery school how the late King George V., arriving at a 14-inch naval gun position on a railway mounting near Arras, ordered the first shot be fired at the junction.

The officer said the late King, who explained he had just come from the fourth army while it was launching an attack at Amiens, added: "You can be perfectly sure the Germans will have to rush reinforcements from Ypres through Douai. Why not keep up a harassing fire on the junction?"

In the next two months 120 tons of high explosives were dropped on Douai. An Englishwoman who lived in the district through the war later informed the officer there were 400 men in a German troop train in the first day's firing. The Germans used the junction little thereafter.

Apple Juice

Okanagan Valley Growers See Possibility In New Industry

The growth of the apple juice industry in the last year has been one of the most hopeful developments in Canadian agriculture. Apple juice has "caught on" all over the country, but more in the East, apparently, than in the West. It has absorbed a substantial part of our surplus apple production and it will absorb more, if Canadians once get the habit of drinking it, instead of imported orange juice. To the hard-pressed Okanagan Valley this industry holds out important possibilities—Van couver Sun.

Newfoundland Once Again Thinks Of Joining Canada

The question of confederation with Canada has cropped up again in Newfoundland as the result of the unification of her defence with Canada's and the current visit of Canadian defence officers.

Newfoundlanders do not mistake the present move as a political confederation, but such opinion as a Canadian Press correspondent could test on the brief visit with the Canadian officials shows that the question has arisen in the minds of the people.

The correspondent was told the only objection in Newfoundland now to confederation would be on economic grounds. Certain business people in St. John's felt that union with Canada would place Newfoundland's resources—mainly fish, pulpwood and iron ore—on a much more direct competitive basis with those of the Maritime Provinces. There is also the feeling that taxes might be increased.

Britain Is Preparing For Offensive War In Next Year's Campaign

London.—Britain, in the thick of the fight against German air power, has not forgotten that a victorious war means an offensive war.

Officers say the British army looks forward to "saurily 750,000, perhaps a million" fully equipped soldiers, supported by a powerful air force, for a 1941 campaign "somewhere in Europe."

Troops will be the spearhead of the offensive which the army, from officers to re-trained staff officers, firmly believe will win the war.

These front fighters will be backed by a million more troops conscripted in the last year and already well into an intensive training which the officers declare is "as necessary for the modern soldier as for the aimless or salaried."

They have confidence in the army's ability to "assimilate and improve Germany's technique in the Polish, Flemish and French campaign and in this nation's industrial ability to put an army in the field equipped for modern war."

Such equipment, they say, must include an air force attached to the army acting under direction of the army commander-in-chief in the German manner.

As winter approaches, the training of troops under Viscount Gort, inspector general for training, becomes more intensive. The army knows Lord Gort as "the grand drill sergeant."

Just as intensive is the campaign started by War Secretary Anthony Eden and supported by his generals to keep the army in the public eye and get it dive-bombers, fighters and tanks which the high command deems essential for successful land operations.

Equipment, not training, is the biggest problem. Most officers say there is not enough now to permit a major counter-attack against the Germans this fall.

"There's no use saying everything is lovely because it isn't," observed a lieutenant general recently. "We can hold this country from now till kingdom come, but we've got to do more than that. We are going to get equipment from our factories and the United States, I hope, and smash him (the enemy) on the continent."

Veterans of the force which fought in Flanders and France are teaching newcomers the lessons they learned across the channel. As defenses rimmed Britain with pillboxes, gun emplacements and barbed wire near completion, more and more troops are being withdrawn for training; tactics are being broadened and the army's mobility is being increased.

Cadet Corps

Winnipeg.—At least 3,000 Winnipeg school boys between the ages of 12 and 18 will be training in cadet corps by the end of September, military officials said. Approximately 40 instructors drawn mainly from city school staffs, will be in charge of the corps.

Canada May Obtain Hundreds Of Tanks From United States

Washington.—Canada probably will obtain several hundred United States army tanks of the last war for use in training the new armored units at Camp Borden, Ont., it was learned.

Asked by The Canadian Press at his press conference whether such a deal was under way, Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, said: "We are favorably considering turning over some World War tanks to the Canadian government."

It is understood the agreement is about completed and that it might involve as many as 300 tanks, considered obsolete by the American army but which would prove valuable at Camp Borden, where the new armored brigade of the Canadian Active Service Force is being organized by Col. F. P. Worthington.

Commenting on the tank deal, Gen. Marshall said: "We are only too glad to help out the Canadians if they could use these World War tanks and we would be glad to turn them over to Canada."

Negotiations for the tanks apparently were carried out by Col. Worthington.

Hammer Blows

Thirteen Canadian Airmen Are Victims Of Berlin Raids

London.—It is learned that 13 Canadian "young musketeers of the air"—who left the Dominion as R.A.F. recruits at the outbreak of war—played a great part in delivering the hammer blows which stung Adolf Hitler into his violent recent outburst.

Two of them are from Peterborough, Ont., and another is from Alameda, Sask. They are veterans of the Berlin raids. They have taken part in three trips over the German capital, where they bombed military objectives and set fire to German forests, where the Germans have been hiding their military targets. These raids have been described by the British press as the most spectacular of the recent exploits of the Royal Air Force.

A Canadian pilot officer told a British United Press correspondent: "One Peterborough pilot operating with coastal command destroyed a German submarine. His name is Jerry. I knew him well at home."

It stated that two of the original 13 Canadians taking part in the R.A.F. raids were killed in action with fighter squadrons and two are prisoners of war.

Most of these Canadians are in their twenties. The sergeant from Alameda has been on 24 bombing raids over Germany. He told a B.U.P. correspondent when he alighted from a giant British bomber after the last trip: "It's swell. I wouldn't miss it for anything. The pilot of my plane is a crack Imperial Airways pilot and flew flying boats on the Empire air route to Australia before the war."

Contributed To Fund

Captured German Airmen Gives Five Marks Toward Buylag Spitfire

London.—A contribution to a Spitfire fund was placed in a collection box by a German airman brought down in a battle over Kent, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

The train in which the German prisoner was travelling under armed escort stopped at a station and on the platform was a Spitfire collection box. The prisoner, after questioning his escort as to what and why the box was there, took a five-penny note from his wallet and placed it in the box through an open window of the train.

Would Locate Ranch

Lethbridge, Alta.—Lincoln Ellsworth, of New York, famous explorer of Polar lands, is looking around in South Alberta for a ranch. He reached Lethbridge by plane from Vancouver and is now a guest at the Duke of Windsor's E.P. ranch at Pekisko in the foothills west of High River.

Play Heroic Role

Canadian Engineers Combat Hitler's Latest Form Of Frighfulness

Somewhere in England.—A group of steel-nerved Canadian engineers are playing an heroic role in aiding British experts combat Hitler's latest form of frightfulness—the delayed action bomb.

Known as the "suicide squad" these men are always on the job in areas where enemy raiders have been active, combing the ground for tell-tale pot holes and rendering harmless the buried missiles loaded with death-dealing explosives.

When Major T. G. Tyrer, of Regina, called for volunteers to act as a demolition squad in a Canadian zone of operation the response was so keen he had difficulty in deciding who should comprise the required team of 10.

"We could have provided any number necessary, so anxious were the men to be of service," the major said. "They felt the work they were being asked to tackle, while it was risky, was part of the job they had come over here to do."

Capt. E. H. Webb, of Winnipeg, was placed in charge of the party, composed of the following: L. Cpl. H. Holden, of Kemptonville, Ont.; L. Cpl. A. K. Sawyer, of Ottawa; Sappers F. W. Burdett, of Toronto; C. R. North, of Vancouver; P. Stringer, W. H. Keith, E. S. Miller, all from Halifax; N. H. Desormeau and R. Pascherly, both Montrealeers, and L. W. Robertson, Ottawa.

Capt. Webb admitted the work imposed a considerable strain on the men as it was impossible to say when the bombs might detonate. Some exploded a few hours after landing, others lingered for days.

His crew has already dug up an assortment ranging from the two-pound incendiary bomb to the 50-pound high explosive bomb. Once dug up they are usually left for experts who either remove the fuse or put them out of action by other means.

Was Misinformed

Wounded German Aviator Thought Invasion Had Started

London.—Apparently German fliers carrying out bombing raids on England are being told at home that German ground forces have begun to invade England.

An 18-year-old German pilot, wounded and captured in North England recently, asked a nurse who was dressing his wounds, "how far are the nearest German troops," the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

The nurse could not convince him there were no German troops in England.

Salute Flag

B.C. School Children Must Observe Proper Ideal Of Loyalty

Victoria.—An order-in-council issued by the British Columbia government provides that school children shall salute the Union Jack and sing the national anthem at least weekly. "It shall be the duty of the principals and teachers to endeavor to see that proper ideals of loyalty to our King and country are instilled into the minds of the pupils," the order said.

ROYALIST HOPE

Loyalists in France look to the Count of Paris, above, 32-year-old pretender to the extinct French throne, as the lone hope of saving the unity of France as established under the Bourbon kings. The Count of Paris became the pretender with the death of his father, Duc de Guise. As a well-known aviator, the Count offered his services against Germany at the outbreak of the war, but was refused when he would not take allegiance to the Republic.

For Common Effort

Sir Edward Beatty Praises Joint Defence Measures

Vancouver.—Development of defence measures jointly by Canada and the United States was endorsed by Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in an address here.

"It has always seemed to me axiomatic that Canada must remain in perpetual alliance with Great Britain and the United States," he told a joint gathering of the Vancouver board of trade, Bar association and Canadian club.

"The interests of these two great nations will, please God, never be divergent, and there is nothing to give alarm to the most ardent British patriot in the spectacle of British North America agreeing with the United States to make tangible plans for common effort against aggression."

One of the most puzzling questions he said, was how the war is to be brought to its inner conclusion after victory had been achieved. It seemed unthinkable that a peace conference could be held with Hitler and Mussolini present. He added:

"My own feeling is that we shall have to continue the war until revolutionary alterations of the governments of several countries have occurred, and that we may even see the necessity of policing a great deal of Europe by comparatively large numbers of troops until order can be restored and the life of many nations assumes a more normal aspect."

Aided by the United States to whatever extent it feels it desirable to participate, the British Empire must continue to prepare a military force capable of restoring order. "I think that it might change the minds of the dictators if they could see the preparations that we, in this country, are making for this purpose," he said.

NOISE ROYALTY SAFE FROM NAZIS

Crown Princess Martha of Norway, among the 897 refugees aboard the transport "American Legion" which successfully completed a perilous voyage from Scandinavia, marked by German warnings of mines in her path, is pictured with her children in New York. The Norwegian family will go to Hyde Park, N.Y., to stay at the President's home, until they find a house to live. The children are Princess Ragnhild, Princess Astrid, and Prince Harald.

West Coast Falls Within The Orbit Of Permanent Defence

Ottawa.—The west coast definitely falls within the orbit of studies being made by the permanent defence board of Canada and the United States, according to Capt. W. L. Murray, deputy chief of naval staff and senior military expert of the board's Canadian section.

At Navy Minister Macdonald's weekly press conference, Capt. Murray said the defence board was considering all aspects of defence and the "west coast is not being forgotten."

Mr. Macdonald's report was one of steady progress and accomplishment on the part of the Royal Canadian Navy. He let it be known that the last and mightiest convoy of troops in which Canadian guardian vessels had a part, had safely delivered to England 11,500 troops together with 33 Canadian nurses and 14 naval cadets. In transporting troops across the Atlantic Canada has not lost a man nor a gun.

Studies of the permanent defence board, Capt. Murray intimated, would include the possibility of completing the long-contemplated Alaska highway from Vancouver to Juneau.

He was not prepared to discuss the technical aspects of this matter as to its feasibility for use as a military road.

Upon the basis of Mr. Macdonald's figure of 11,500 troops recently landed in the United Kingdom and reports in the British press of 35,000

Canadians in that country, together with a statement made by Defence Minister Ralston in the House of Commons in July that the government proposed to maintain a corps of two divisions there, the assumption was made that for the present the task of the navies in escorting contingents overseas might be considered complete.

No statement was forthcoming either from Mr. Macdonald or the defence department on this matter.

Mr. Macdonald announced three new appointments: Cmdr. W. B. Creery, former commanding officer of the destroyer Fraser, sunk in a collision while in action, to be commander-in-charge at Halifax; Cmdr. L. J. M. Gauvreau to be senior officer at Gaspe, and Engineer Captain George Leslie Stephens to be naval superintendent at Esquimalt, B.C., as well as chief engineer at the dockyards, his present post.

The minister said for the first seven months of the year Canada's import and export trade showed an increase of $376,071.186 over the corresponding period of a year ago. Imports increased $206,437,649 while exports gained $169,633,537.

Latest statistics showed that for the 12-month period from March, 1939, to March, 1940, which includes seven months of the war, there was an increase of 6,368 outgoing and incoming ships over the corresponding time a year ago. This increase in tons amounted to 4,991,081.

Carol Of Rumania Forced To Abdicate On Fascist Demands

Bucharest.—King Carol of Rumania abdicated under riotous demands of the Fascist Iron Guard and his son, Prince Mihai, was proclaimed king. Mihai will be 19 Oct. 25.

Masses of Iron Guard members had packed the capital clamoring for Carol to step down and at the same time they cheered General Ion Antonescu, the nation's new military dictator, who assumed supreme power just 24 hours previously and presented Carol with a number of demands.

The abdication followed a lengthy conference between the king and the man who reduced him to a puppet ruler, but it was reported authoritatively that Antonescu had presented demands on the monarch for the application of certain new orders.

Just before Antonescu left the king's palace, the gendarmes on guard there were replaced by steel-helmeted soldiers.

In official circles it was reported that a decree had been issued removing from office Ion Morozee, chief of the palace secret police.

This move was considered significant for Morozee long has been known as Rumania's "mystery man." He often travelled abroad on secret royal missions and was reputed to be the most powerful single figure in Carol's regime.

He came and went at the royal chambers by night and day without question. He made and broke ministers of state and shaped vital policies.

In a statement issued before the conference, Antonescu asserted his friendship and co-operation with the axis powers and pledged himself to carry out the Vienna agreement whereby Rumania yielded Transylvania, into which the Hungarian occupation forces began marching through a series of isolated but bloody clashes.

During the conference between the king and the new dictator-premier, reported on the authority of a government official to be concerned with a demand that Carol renounce his throne, a group of Iron Guards kept up a noisy vigil near the royal palace.

Hemmed in by soldiers and gendarmes, these demonstrators shouted again and again:

"Carol must abdicate! But don't let him take the money!"

The Iron Guards already had been involved in a bloody riot near the palace, which was broken up by cops only to spread out then into sporadic rifle and pistol clashes at numerous points in the city.

In this initial outbreak, hundreds of troops, using armored cars and machine guns, fought the pro-Fascist Guards.

I saw many people trampled. A man in a sidewalk café sank to the terrace, his head split open by a hand chair.

The Rumanian general staff issued a communique saying the northwest corner of the province had been occupied by Hungarian troops by nightfall, including the cities of Satu Mare, Carei Mare, and Sighet. Complete occupation of the 17,000 square miles is expected within a week.

British Housewives' New War Job

By IRIS CARPENTER, Famous British Woman Journalist.

Twelve million British women have, that this campaign to turn raw materials into war material is a mere skirmish to be settled by one onslaught on household "junk."

Each recruit has helped to launch the first attack with the donation of her home's reserves. She is preparing now a blockade of daily vigilance. Regarding her home as a battle position which waste must not be allowed to leave unless marshalled in the national interest.

In peace-time Britain used three and a half million tons of paper a year. In war much more is needed. Special paper is wanted for the making and packing of explosives. Photographic, tracing and chart papers are needed for the Army, Navy and Air Force. More than 10,000 tons of clean waste paper is available for preservation every week. So the saving of every possible scrap is one of the most important of the Salvage Army's duties.

Each member will tie the paper she saves each week into a neat parcel to put on her doorstep for collection. There will be newspapers, food cartons, cigarette boxes, letters and wrapping paper. Repurposed and processed these will serve again as rifle and shell cases and food containers for the troops.

There will be other parcels on her doorstep too. One for bones. These are a valuable part of household waste—providing glycerine for explosives. Feeding stuffs. Fertilizers. Glue for aeroplanes.

One for rags and old clothing of all descriptions. These make blankets—even uniforms. There will be a parcel of metal. Metal tops from milk bottles.

Tooth paste and face cream tubes. The tins which have contained vegetables, chocolate, meat, milk and fish. These all have a variety of war uses.

A pail for household scraps must have a place. For the valuable these are for the feeding of pigs and poultry can be gathered from the fact that special machinery for their conversion into meal is being installed in various parts of the country.

No less than forty pigs can be fed each week from the kitchen waste of every thousand homes. It does not matter how small the parcels are as long as the contents of each are properly sorted for easy despatch to the proper quarter.

It takes only one old envelope to make a cartridge wad. If each housewife's thrift resulted in the saving of only two ounces of bones a week, Britain would get more than 20,000 tons a year. One or two tins saved every week from every home would make an enormous yearly tonnage. And it takes only one ton of metal to make 150 cases for 18 pounder shells.

Unimposing though the work of this army may seem to the housewives of other lands, it is an important, if somewhat strange, development of modern war. Every pound each British housewife can save means more than the saving of money and shipping space. Her thrift is providing something a sailor need not risk his life to replace.

As she puts out her parcels on collecting days she can be proud of her service.

Her "doorstep ammunition" will help to shorten the war.

London is now besieged by the only troops that are ever likely to lay siege to it—British Empire troops. To enable them to find their way about and to answer other questions the mobile information bureau, here surrounded by Australians and New Zealanders, travels around the city in the charge of two women.

Wooden Soldier to Aid Legion Campaign

Drawing and Painting Done by Fred Founds; Carpenter Work by Jack Derbyshire.

The "Parade of the Wooden Soldier" will have nothing on Coleman's wooden soldier on Saturday when it will be placed in front of the bank to help in the campaign for funds in a campaign sponsored by the Canadian Legion to aid in sending cigarettes and comforts overseas for Coleman soldiers.

The drawing was made by Fred Founds who gave it to Jack Derbyshire, who carved it out of a block of wood. The figure will be life size and will be painted by Mr. Founds in the color of the Canadian soldier's uniform. The soldier will be on exhibition at the Legion club building on weekdays.

Boy Scout and Girl Guide Notes

The First Coleman Guide Company held the first parade of the season on Monday, September 9.

As the captain of the Second Company, Mrs. Campbell, has left town it was decided by the girls of the Second Company that the two groups should meet together, for a time at least.

A Junior Ranger Patrol was formed, to which the girls past Guide age will belong. As this is something new here, plans have not been completed, but we hope to have a good sized patrol. The girls will meet with the First Guide Company, but attempt to take up more advanced work. Any girl interested, and sixteen years of age or over, is invited to attend.

The meetings will be on Monday evenings at 6:30 p.m., under the leadership of Miss W. A. Dunlop, captain, and Miss A. J. Emerson, lieutenant.

OIL CANS CONSIDERED DANGEROUS FOR FOOD

It has been brought to the attention of the Dominion Department of Agriculture that many persons are making use of oil cans for the canning of foods.

The use of oil cans for food is considered to be very dangerous practice since they are made ofterne plate, a plating which is almost wholly lead, and very small amounts of lead are poisonous.

Cans made expressly for food are entirely different and can be bought at a nominal price from hardware stores and mail order houses. Years of research have gone into the manufacture of cans for canning food, with the result that the inside plating is lead free. This is done to make it impossible for foods to become contaminated with lead, and no cans should be used for fruits, vegetables, meats or fish other than those made as food cans.

Oil cans are not food cans and should not be used for any food product.

War Loan Is $98,000,000 Short of Objective

Institutions' And Corporations' Subscriptions Exceed Those of First Loan. Private Subscriptions Fail to Meet Expectations

Canada's second war loan subscriptions have reached a total of $201,949,500 leaving a margin of more than $98,000,000 before the objective is reached. National subscriptions from institutions and corporations have exceeded the total reached in the first loan but private subscriptions have not yet assumed proportions to assure success for the loan.

The minister of finance has broadcast an appeal to all Canadians to take their places and support the loan. He said it was an opportunity for the many to show how they feel about the few whose courage is winning the day for us all.

Pucksters And Buffalos Tie in Exhibition Game

Pucksters Have Tune-Up For Games Against Staveley Next Sunday

In an exhibition game that served as a tune-up for the locals in preparation for their series against Staveley next Sunday, Pucksters and Michel Buffalos played to a 5-5 tie on Wednesday evening. The game was called at the end of the seventh because of darkness.

Pucksters, although outitting Michel 11 to 5, fought an uphill battle all the way, and only succeeded in tying the game in the sixth on a three run rally. Michel scored one run in the first inning, three in the third and one in the fifth. Pucksters scored in the second, third and sixth innings.

Martin started for the locals but was taken out in the third when trailing 4-2. Kanik took his place and held his opponents hitless from then on. He allowed one walk which resulted in a run. Little started for Michel, being succeeded by Halko in the third, who was taken out and replaced by Kralh in the sixth when Pucksters threatened to take the lead. Pucksters committed three errors and Buffalos two.

CANADIAN CITY NAMES ARE OFTEN DUPLICATED ACROSS THE BORDER

That Ottawa is an exclusive name would be the guess of many inhabitants of the Dominion, particularly as it is the Capital. Yet a railway agent might well inquire of the intending traveller which of eight communities was meant when asking for a "ticket to Ottawa". Transportation salesmen of the Canadian National Railways know that in addition to the seat of Parliament there are seven Ottawas across the border in Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Not is the repetitious use of place names confined to the Capital, even Montreal which would appear quite safe because the title clearly designates Mount Royal, the central physical feature of the Metropolis has its counterpart in Michigan, although on somewhat smaller scale.

Calgary has a rival in Texas, while Vancouver has one in Washington.

Canadian cities which hold their names exclusively are Winnipeg, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon, Moncton and Charlottetown.

Alberta Publishers Feted At "Wonderful Waterton"

When the Alberta Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association gathered at Waterton National Park on Saturday, August 31, this group picture was snapped by the Herald's cameraman. The convention delegates and their wives were guests of the Lethbridge Herald at a luncheon at the Prince of Wales hotel and it was at the hotel that the picture was taken. Senator Buchanan, host for the luncheon, is shown on the extreme right. The group also enjoyed a cruise to the head of the lakes arranged by the Canadian Rockies Hotel Company, Ltd., operators of the Prince of Wales hotel, who also arranged an interesting Indian powwow featuring Blackfoot Indians from Glacier National Park, Montana.

Alberta Weekly Publishers Met At Lethbridge

Cordial Welcome Given By Herald Publishing Co. and Lethbridge Board of Trade.

Alberta Division of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association met on Friday and Saturday at Lethbridge and Waterton Lakes Park for their annual convention. It is twelve years since the convention was held there, and the first time it has been held so early in the season.

The reason of this was to enable a trip to be made to Waterton Lakes Park, which proved to be a most enjoyable highlight of the convention, in fact the whole affair was voted the best in many years of their annual gatherings.

The business sessions were held on Friday morning and afternoon, and at the close of the afternoon sessions, cars conveyed the party to Kenyon Airport, where they were shown through the training school by Flight Lieut. Bervin. There are 28 Puss Moth training planes at the field, this being one of the elementary training schools under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

The luncheon on Friday was given by Calgary Power Co. Ltd., at which Mr. W. E. Ross, district supervisor, was chairman, and the speakers were Mayor D. H. Elton and Ex-Mayor Robert Barrowman. During the afternoon business session a very practical address was given by Mr. G. M. Moss, publisher of the Whitefish Pilot, of Whitefish, Montana. He is a past president of the Montana State Press Association.

WHAT THE MAHATMA SAID

(The Financial Post)

In Liberty Magazine, the Mahatma Gandhi has an article discussing what India would do if it were invaded. It would flog the invader by a policy of non-violent, non-co-operation, which he describes.

Apart from this piece of whimsy, the most curious feature of the article is that it does not suggest who is going to invade India. The Mahatma says India faces two alternatives: either a victory by Britain over Germany, or a draw, "leaving the Empire completely or virtually untouched." That certainly does not suggest possibility of an invasion by anyone.

But the mystery is solved when one reads the same article in the American edition of Liberty. There it is found that the Mahatma presented a third alternative: that England would be defeated and her "conquerors" would set out to break up the Empire, India being the richest prize.

The editors of Liberty dropped that part of the Mahatma's article

Mr. Moss, his topic being "The Challenge of a Changing World, presenting an American Point of View."

Promptly at 7.15 a.m. on Saturday the party left Lethbridge for Waterton Lakes Park, arriving at 10.30 for a trip on the "International" to the head of the lake, which proved a delightful experience, whereby the full beauty of the scenery was enjoyed. On their return they were the guests of the Lethbridge Herald Printing & Publishing Co. Ltd., at a luncheon in the Prince of Wales Hotel, presided over by Senator W. A. Buchanan, president of the company. He welcomed the guests, and pointed out the value of Waterton Lakes as a tourist resort not only for visitors from across the International boundary, but to the people of Alberta. Presentations of the prize-winning awards in the newspaper and commercial printing competitions were made following the luncheon.

The program concluded with a group photograph being taken by The Herald staff photographer, and an Indian program by a group of Blackfoot Indians from Montana, who were brought over by the Prince of Wales hotel. This proved very interesting.

In the report of the resolutions committee hearty votes of thanks were passed to the Lethbridge Board of Trade, the Herald Publishing Co. Ltd., the wholesale supply houses, the Calgary Power Co. and others who helped to make the convention such an enjoyable affair. Also the Lethbridge Golf and Country Club for entertaining the ladies of the party on Friday afternoon.

Mr. George McRae, of Midwest Paper Sales Ltd., took a leading part in organizing the program, and remained with the party throughout the two days. The delegates voted it the finest convention they had attended.

out when they printed their edition for Canadian consumption.

That they thus left the Mahatma's article hanging in the air unattached to its main premise is of minor importance. But why should a magazine, which makes some pretensions of being Canadian, publish to American defeatist talk of a possible conquest of Britain that it does not dare to present to Canadians?

In this not just more evidence of Liberty's double-dealing editorial policy with which Canadians are now becoming only too familiar.

Personnel of the Canadian Navy is nearly six times as great as it was a year ago, announced Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services. Approximately 10,000 Naval officers and men are on active service.

A Soldier's Scarf

To you, the wearer of this scarf, whoever you may be, Please do not wear it lightly, with n'er a thought of me. I want to help to win the war, I do, with all my heart, And just as earnestly I wish mine were a different part. But take this scarf, it can't be lost you'll knit it by the holes. And if you listen quietly you may even hear some groans It frayed me and it frizzled me, I couldn't seem to "larn"; If you think I was worried you should have seen the yarn. My neck ached and my back ached; in fact, my heart ached too, To think that there was nothing nice that I could do for you I envy those complacent souls who rock and read and knit If you think it relaxes me you should have seen me sit Bolt upright on the edge of a chair, afraid to move a muscle Lest the doggone stitch slip out on me, and again I have to tangle Let no one high-hat you, lad, your scarf has a history. Though what became of the stitches lost still remains a mystery. If you get your eye on Hitler just wrap it around his neck Then pull it tightly from both ends and give him what's called heck So here is luck to all of you, in sky, on land, at sea We owe so much to all of you, wherever you may be, It matters not what race you are, whether you're black or white You are with the British Army, and you're battling for the right.

George Kellock Came to Coleman in 1908

Resided at Ladysmith, Coal Creek and Coleman in First Year; Became McGillivray Mine Manager in 1912.

At 10:05 p.m. on Wednesday, September 4, there ended one of the most successful careers in the history of Coleman when death came to George Kellock, vice-president and general manager of McGillivray and International coal companies.

Left to mourn his passing are Mrs. Kellock and son Jim; four sisters, Isabella and Lillias, residents of the United States, Rita, of Toronto, and Nettie, of Carden, Fifeshire. One brother, Jim, resides at Edmonton and was present at the funeral.

Deceased was born December 12, 1882, in Dunfermline, Fifeshire, and was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kellock. He started his mining career at Townhill, a few miles from Dunfermline. In 1902 he moved with his family to Bowhill where he resumed his occupation as a miner.

In 1905 he married Miss Jean Anderson in Dunfermline, maintaining residence at Bowhill where Agnes was born.

In 1908 he came to Canada and landed at Ladysmith on Vancouver Island. The same year he moved to Coal Creek and after several months there he came to Coleman, where he had resided since.

In 1908 he entered the employ of International mine and studied for his fireboss and pit boss papers. In 1910 he lived at York Creek first as a fire boss, then as a pit boss at International. In 1912 he entered the employ of McGillivray mine as superintendent, succeeding Tom Horne. Six months later he was promoted to general manager of the colliery.

From that day he had guided the destiny of McGillivray Creek Coal Co. and some years ago was elected vice-president of the company, still retaining the general management. A few years ago he was placed in charge of both companies, Mr. O. E. S. Whiteside, general manager of International company resigning.

A man of keen vision and shrewdness he was able to keep both his mines working steadily over a long period of years while other mines in the district were experiencing idle time. Modern machinery has been installed at both mines, and the International tipple is regarded as the most modern in Alberta.

Was Professional Cyclist And Soccer Player

Rode in Scotland and England; Played Football For Dunfermline Athletic.

The late George Kellock, in his youth, enjoyed a varied and colorful athletic career. Raised in the small mining camps in Fifeshire, Scotland, he rapidly came to the fore in bicycle racing and football.

Among his cronies of those days were Sandy Dewar and Archie Beveridge. For many years he rode as an amateur and won many trophies. He won the Kinnross games race on several occasions and travelled widely throughout Scotland and England. He turned professional in this sport and competed several times against Archie Beveridge, who was also a professional rider. He suffered a bad fracture of the leg during a race at West Calder, Scotland, during a "jam session." According to Sandy Dewar, George Kellock was one of the best, and on two occasions a hard man to beat. Tom Swan was also in his heyday in the racing game at this time and many a thrilling duel was run between them.

Football also gained his attention and he was a member of the Bowhill Thistle, a juvenile aggregation. He graduated from juvenile ranks to senior in one year, when he signed on with Dunfermline Athletic, a second division professional team. He played for the athletic for several years.

With Sandy Dewar he travelled to Edinburgh, where the two young men took boxing lessons from David Hill, whom boxing fans will know as the father of the late Johnny Hill, former world's champion Flyweight boxer.

Coming to Canada in 1908 he resided at Ladysmith and a few months later moved to Coal Creek, where he soon was in the football stripe of the Coal Creek team. It was while playing for the Creek that he came in contact with Sam Moores, Bill Roughhead, Jimmy Yates, Jack Bell and many other local old time football players. That same year he moved to Coleman, where he resided until his death.

While the years began to prevent him from taking an active part in sport, he maintained a keen interest in the sport of Coleman and was responsible for making jobs available for hockey players as well as players for football and baseball. Senior hockey, as is well known, could not function if mine officials refuse to make jobs available for players.

The levelling of the sports field was his last act in the local sporting world and it is still incomplete. He had the satisfaction of watching the completed portion of the field put to good use by the baseball team and of hearing complimentary comment on his good work.

He was honorary president of practically every sporting organization in town and many the time he dug down for funds to help carry certain organizations along. "Boost Coleman" was his slogan, and now that he has gone, the slogan should be held high by the local sporting fraternity. "Boost Coleman," as a memorial to one who did so much for the community in which he lived the greater part of his life.

Canadian Legion Returns $40,000 Loan to Red Cross

The Canadian Legion War Services has returned the $40,000 given that organization by the Canadian Red Cross Society in the early stages of the war, it was announced last evening. The money was advanced to the Canadian Legion to start it on its programme of work on behalf of the men of the fighting forces.

Finding it necessary to launch a nation-wide appeal for additional funds some time ago, it is explained, the Legion has found itself in a position, as a result, to return the money contributed by the Canadian Red Cross.

Expressing appreciation of the assistance given by the Red Cross, Brigadier General Alex Ross, chairman of the Canadian Legion War Services, stated in a letter accompanying the cheque for $40,000, "We feel that it is only right that, having regard to the very many calls made upon the Canadian Red Cross, we should refund to you the sum made available to us. We are pleased to report that as a result of your assistance we have been able to develop an organization which we feel is playing a more and more important part in contributing to the welfare of the men who are serving in His Majesty's Forces."

Dr. Fred W. Routley, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, commented, "The Canadian Red Cross is greatly appreciative of the action of the Canadian Legion. In the early stages of the war they asked our financial help in getting them started on an effective piece of work. We were embarking on our national campaign for funds at the time and the Canadian Legion agreed to do everything they could to help us. "We, in turn, pledged them a grant of $10,000 a month for six months. It was agreed that this grant would stop if they launched a campaign for their own during that time. We had advanced $40,000 when they decided on a campaign, and our grant ceased. Now they find themselves in a position to return the money."

C.P.R. OFFERS TRAVEL BARGAINS TO EASTERN CANADA

An opportunity for an early Fall trip to Eastern Canada at the popular bargain fares, has been announced by Mr. Taylor, local Canadian Pacific ticket agent.

At the corner of Bedford place a shining limousine was drawn up by the sidewalk, and so deep was he in thought that he would have passed, had not the man who was sitting at the wheel removed the long cigar from his white teeth and called him by name. Jim turned with a start. The last person he expected to meet at this hour of the morning in the prosaic environment of Theobald's Road.

"I thought it was you," Mr. Harlow's voice was cheerful, his manner a pattern of geniality. "This is a fortunate meeting."

"For which of us?" smiled Jim, leaning his elbow on the window opening and looking into the face of the man.

"For both, I hope. Come inside, and I'll drive you anywhere you're going. I have an invitation to offer and a suggestion to make."

Jim opened the door and stepped in. Harlow was a skilful driver. He slipped in and out of the traffic into Bedford Square, and then:

"Do you mind if I drive you to my house? Perhaps you can spare the time?"

Jim nodded, wondering what was the proposition. But throughout the drive Mr. Harlow kept up a flow of unimportant small talk and he said nothing important until he showed his visitor into the beautiful library. Mr. Harlow threw his heavy coat and cap onto one of the red settees, twisted a chair round, so that it revolved like a top, and set it down near his visitor.

"Somebody followed you here," he said. "I saw him out of the tail of my eye. A Scotland Yard man! My dear man, you are very precious to the law." He chuckled at this. "But I hear you no malice that you do not trust me. My theory is that it is much better for a dozen innocent men to come under police surveillance than for a guilty man to escape detection. Only it is sometimes a little unbecoming, the knowledge that I am being watched. I could stop it at once, of course. The Courier is in the market—I could buy a newspaper and make your lives very unpleasant indeed. I could raise a dozen men up in Parliament to ask what the devil you meant by it. In fact, my dear Carlton, there are so many ways of breaking you and your immediate superior that I cannot carry them in my head!"

And Jim had an uncomfortable feeling that this was no vain boast.

"I really don't mind," Harlow went on; "it annoys me a little, but amuses me more. I am almost above the law! How stupid that sounds!" He slapped his knee and his rich laughter filled the room. "Of course I am; you know that! Unless I do something very stupid and so trivial that even the police can understand that I am breaking the law, you can never touch me!"

He waited for some comment here, but Jim was content to let his host do most of the talking. A footman came in at that moment, pushing a little basket trolley, and to Jim's surprise, it contained a silver tea service, in addition to a bottle of whisky, siphon and glasses.

"I never drink," explained Harlow. "When I say 'never,' it would be better if I said 'rarely.' Tea drinking is a pernicious habit which I acquired in my early youth." He lifted the bottle. "For you—?"

"Tea also," said Jim, and Mr. Harlow inclined his head.

"I thought that was possible," he said, and when the servant had gone he carried his tea back to the writing table and sat down.

"You're a very clever young man," he said abruptly, and Jim showed his teeth in a skeptical smile. "I could almost wish you would admit your genius. I hate that form of modesty which is expected in self-depreciation. Very clever, I have watched your career and have interested myself in your beginning. If you were an ordinary police officer I should not bother with you; but you are something different."

Again he paused, as though he expected a protest, but neither by word nor gesture did Jim Carlton approve or deny his right to this distinction.

"As for me, I am a rich man," Harlow went on. "Yet I need the very help you can give to me. You are not well off, Mr. Carlton? I believe you have an income of $200 a year or thereabouts, spent from your salary, and that is very little for one who sooner or later must feel the need of a home of his own, a wife and a family—"

Again he paused suggestively, and this time Jim spoke.

"What do you suggest to remedy this state of affairs?" he asked.

Mr. Harlow smiled. "You are being sarcastic. There is sarcasm in your voice! You feel that you are superior to the question of money. You can afford to laugh at it. But, my friend, money is a very serious thing. I offer you $5,000 a year."

He rose to his feet the better to emphasize the offer.

"And my duties?" he said quietly. Harlow shrugged his big shoulders; the ample skirt of his frock coat swirled back as he put his hands deep into his trousers pockets.

"I watch my interests." He almost emphasized the utmost thing. "I employ that clever brain of yours in furthering my cause, in protecting me when I go—joking! I love a joke—a practical joke. To see the joke man squirming makes me laugh. Five thousand a year, and all your expenses paid to the utmost thing. You like play going? I'll show you a play that will set you rolling with joy! What do you say?"

"No," said Jim simply; "I'm not keen on jokes."

"You're not?" Harlow made a little grimace. "What a pity! There might be a million in it for you. I am not trying to induce you to do anything against your principles, but it is a pity."

It seemed to Jim's sensitive ear that there was genuine regret in Harlow's tone, but he went on quickly: "I appreciate your standpoint. You have no desire to enter my service. You are, let us say, antipathetic to me?"

"I prefer my own work," said Jim. Harlow's smile was broad and benevolent.

"There remains only one suggestion. I want you to come to the dinner and reception I am giving to the Macedonian delegates next Thursday. Regard that as an olive branch!"

Jim smiled.

"I will gladly accept your invitation, Mr. Harlow," he said, and then with scarcely a pause: "Where can I find Marling?"

The words were hardly out of his lips before he cursed himself for his folly. He had not the slightest intention of asking such a fool question, and he would have kicked himself for the stupid impulse which, in one fraction of a second, had thrown out of gear the delicate machinery of investigation.

Not a muscle of Stratford Harlow's face moved.

"Marling?" he repeated. His black brows met in a frown, the pale eyes surveyed the detective blankly. "Marling?" he said again. "Now where have I heard that name? You don't mean the fellow who was my tutor? Good God! What a question to ask! I have never heard of him from the day he left for South Africa or somewhere."

"The Argentine?" suggested Jim.

"Was it the Argentine? I'm not sure. Yes, I am—Pernambuco—cholerica—he died there!"

The underlip came thrusting out. Harlow was passing to the aggressive.

"The truth is, Marling and I were not very good friends. He treated me rather as though I were a child, and I cannot think of him without resentment. Marling! How that name brings back the most uncomfortable memories! The succession of wretched cottages, the prim, neat gardens, of his abominable Greek and Latin verses—differential calculus, the whole horrible gauntlet of so-called education through which a timid youth must run—and be fayed. Why do you ask?"

Jim had his excuse all ready. He might not recover the ground he had lost, but he could at least consolidate himself against further retirement.

"I have had an inquiry from one of his former associates." He mentioned a name, and here he was on safe ground, for it was the name of a man who had been a contemporary of Marling's and who was in the same college. Not a difficult achievement for Jim, who had spent that morning looking up old university lists. Evidently it had no significance for Harlow.

"I seem to remember Marling talking about him," he said. "But twenty-old years is a very long time to cast back one's memory. And very probably I am an unconscious liar! So far as I know—he shook his head—"

"Marling is dead. I have no absolute proof of this, but if you wish I will have inquiries made. The Argentine Government will do almost anything I wish."

"You're a lucky man," Jim held out his hand with a laugh.

"I wonder if I am?" Harlow looked at him steadfastly. "I wonder! And I wonder if you are, Mr. Carlton," he added slowly. "Or will be?"

Jim Carlton was not in a position to supply an answer.

His foot was on the doorstep when Harlow called him back.

"I owe you an apology," he said. "Jim supposed that he was talking about the offer he had made, but this was not the case."

"It was a crude and degrading business, Mr. Carlton—but I have a passion for experiment. Such methods were efficacious in the days of our forefathers, and I argued that human nature has not greatly changed."

Carlton was listening in bewilderment.

"I don't quite follow you."

Mr. Harlow showed his teeth in a smile and for a moment his pale eyes lit up with glee.

"This was not a case of you following me—but of my following you. A crude business. I am heartily ashamed of myself!"

Jim was halfway to Scotland Yard before the solution of this mysterious apology occurred to him. Stratford Harlow was expressing his regret for the attack that had been delivered by his agents in Long Acre.

Jim stopped to scratch his head.

"That man worries me!" he said aloud.

A Worth While Gift

A 5,000,000-pound gift of butter to Great Britain by Canadian dairymen and creameries is the goal of the Okanagan Valley Co-operative Creamery Association, which is seeking support of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba creameries in its plan.

Call To Service

Farmers In A Saskatchewan District Working Together To Aid Canada In Struggle

Facing the hardships that the lack of storage space for this year's wheat crop has brought them, Ewee Arnold Larsen and 30 farmers from the municipality of Great Bend in the Borden, Sask., district, sent out a "Call to Service" to all the ratepayers in their district, pledging themselves to undertake these added sacrifices as "part of our contribution to the unity and strength of Canada."

The signatories include a number of the original homesteaders of the district, some of the young men just beginning to farm, officials in the Veterans Association, leaders in the co-operative and farm movements, and representatives of the various racial and political groups, all working together to "do their bit" on the home front.

The "Call to Service" reads: "The 'Call of Service' in Canada and in the Empire these are days of testing. We need to mobilize all our resources of courage, unselfishness and faith in God. There will be heavy demands, not only on men and materials, but on the resources of the spirit as well."

One of the results of the present struggle is the serious situation which has arisen in the handling of our wheat crop. The Government has given a plan to help us and here is an immediate place where we can put these essential spiritual qualities to work. There are practical things we can do:

(1) We can be honest about the acreage we have in wheat. We can refuse to try to wrangle something extra for ourselves. Every time we cheat, our country and our neighbors suffer.

(2) We can help one another with the economical storage of grain on the farm. We need to be wise in our storage.

(3) We can adequately protect our grain from livestock, and our livestock from grain. On our thoroughness will depend the community's welfare.

This spirit of moral re-armament which is widespread in our district is essential in this emergency. We are the untrained people ever since we carry out this program as part of our contribution to the unity and strength of Canada."

"This message is an evidence of the new spirit which is growing in our district," said W. Wake, one of the farmers who sponsored this statement. "Some of us have been trying to follow God's direction for our lives and community ever since the work of Moral Re-Armament began here. We are finding that there are a lot of things we thought pretty hopeless that can be changed when we learn real team work, and everybody can have a part in fighting the selfish materialistic spirit that weakens and divides the country. The total of it is only one step in the program we are working on to build the kind of community life in the whole country. Any district can do it if a few are ready to begin."

Homemakers' Donation

Donate Two Beds To Red Cross Hospital At Taplow, England

Inscribed brass plates on two beds in the First Bed Hospital of the Canadian Red Cross at Taplow, England, will announce the generosity of the Saskatchewan Homemakers' Club, from whom provisions headquarters of the Red Cross in Saskatchewan has received a cheque for $2,500 for their purchase.

The hospital, now under management of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, is a 600-bed hospital costing the total of $750,000. The purchase of a bed means payment of one-sixth hundredth of the hospital. Miss Bertha Oxner, secretary of the Homemakers, explained in a letter that each of their 5,000 members contributed 50 cents to make up the cheque.

This is a very wonderful donation, and is one of the most permanent gifts anyone can give the Red Cross. It is an appreciated achievement for an organization that has long been a good friend of the Red Cross in Saskatchewan.

Canada's Tallest Soldier

Distinction of being the tallest man in the Canadian army is claimed by Signaller G. E. Smith, who enlisted at Fredericton. He is six feet seven inches tall, 21 years old, unmarried, and hails from Hoyt, N.B.

Research In Pulp And Paper

Example Of The Value Of Co-operation Between Government And Industry

An expanded program of research in pulp, paper and related products has been provided for in a new agreement entered into by the Federal Department of Mines and Resources with the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association and McGill University. Under the terms of this agreement the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association undertakes to provide greatly increased support for the extension of studies aimed at the improvement of production methods and the reduction of manufacturing costs. The first agreement for such co-operative activity was entered into 12 years ago, at which time the Association erected a special research building on a site provided by McGill University.

The Dominion Government has a very definite interest in the pulp and paper industry as, in addition to occupying a leading place in the country's export trade, the industry provides employment for thousands of high-skilled as well as unskilled workers. Likewise the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association is fully aware of the necessity of research in order to maintain and improve the industry's position in the highly competitive markets of the world, and has manifested this interest by substantially increased appropriations for the operation of the Pulp and Paper Institute. McGill, as well as other Canadian universities, finds through the pulp and paper industries a broad field of employment for graduates in engineering, chemistry and other related sciences.

Thus the Pulp and Paper Institute is an outstanding example of the value of effective co-operation between government, industry and educational institutions in employing material and human resources to advance the country's industrial and social welfare.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

GOLDEN RULE APPLIED

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.—Matthew 7: 12.

To do as you would be done by, is the plain, sure, and undisputed rule of morality and justice.—Lord Chesterfield.

Mankind will be God-governed in proportion as God's government becomes apparent, the Golden Rule utilized, and the rights of man and the liberty of conscience held sacred.—Mary Baker Eddy.

To have a respect for ourselves guides our morals; and to have a deference for others governs our manners.—Sterne.

Do not make things comfortable for yourself in any way as to make them uncomfortable for others.—Chinese Proverb.

The Golden Rule works like gravitation.—C. F. Dole.

Coal Monopoly By Japan

Has Created Shortage And Much Higher Prices In Shanghai

Japan's monopoly of Chinese coal either for military and transportation or for export to Japan has created a coal famine in Shanghai. Before the war, China not only produced enough coal for her own consumption but exported large quantities to Japan and other parts of the Far East. Soft coal in Shanghai before hostilities cost 15 Chinese dollars a ton. Ever since supplies of Chinese coal on hand at the beginning of the war were exhausted, Shanghai has been forced to import coal from Calcutta. The present price of this indispensable industrial and domestic commodity is 280 (Chinese) a ton.

French Embassy In London

Stands On Ground Given To France By Queen Victoria

The large number of Frenchmen who now loyally support General de Gaulle and a free France have been asking that the French Embassy in London should become the official residence of the General. They claim that this historic building would give General de Gaulle a proper setting for his task of liberating the country, says the London Daily Sketch. The French Embassy in London enjoys a unique privilege amongst embassies in London. It is the only foreign embassy to stand on native soil. This privilege was granted to France by Queen Victoria at the request of Princess Eugenie.

Approximately 8,750,000 acres of land in South Dakota are still termed "public domain."

HOME SERVICE

EVERYBODY LOVES TO SING—STEPHEN FOSTER DITTIES

New Songbook Has Dixie Airs

When friends are gathered together there's nothing like a favorite southern song to create a warm friendly atmosphere. Stephen Foster's "Jeanie with Light Brown Hair" appeals to every heart.

"I see her tripping where the bright streams play. Happy as the daisies that dance on her way."

And who, in leading through a southern songbook, ever skips Foster's "Oh Susanna"? Happily you warble:

"I came to Alabama wid my banjo on my knee. I'm 'gwan to Lou'iana. My true love for to see."

Of course you'll want to wind up the program with a stirring old-time spiritual. "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen" calls for lots of feeling. "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen."

Glory Hallelujah! Sometimes I'm up, sometimes I'm down. Yes! Yes! Lord, sometimes I'm almost to the ground."

For club get-togethers, parties, picnics, or southern songbook has 27 songs complete with words and piano accompaniments, guitar arrangements. Includes eight Stephen Foster airs as well as spirituals and other favorites.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Stephen Foster's Songbook" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

183—Simple Cartooning Self-Taught.

185—"Easy Lessons in Guitar Playing."

187—"Decorative and Useful Things to Make With Paper."

187—"Popular Cowboy Songs."

188—"Etiquette: The Correct Thing to Do."
